

Carl K. Turpin

Carl K. Turpin has over 40 years of experience handling labor and employment matters both for management and labor. In April 2019, Mr. Turpin retired from the District of Columbia Public Schools (DCPS) as a Supervisor of the Labor and Employment unit of the Office of the General Counsel and started an alternative dispute resolution practice as an arbitrator, hearing officer, employment investigator and mediator. Mr. Turpin is a member of several alternative dispute panels, such as, the American Arbitration Association Labor and Employment panels and the National Bar Association Certified Panel of Arbitrators and Mediators. Mr. Turpin earned a bachelor's degree from Howard University (Cum Laude) and J.D. degree from DePaul University College of Law.